Dear Felipe Ramirez:

I'm following up on our last October 28th talk about creating links between Simon Fraser University and Universidad Anahuac Norte.

As I mentioned during our talk, the school I attend SIAT (School of Interactive Arts and Technology) wants to augment the pool of universities from which they recruit graduate students. Mexico due to its proximity and location is an interesting target and the school is interested in profiles such as the Anahuac University. At this moment, the professors are in the process of naming the person in charge of creating these ties and as soon as they have it, I will send them your contact information.

Sincerely,

Mayra Barrera
